

Transition Steering Group Purpose

Purpose

The Transition Steering group have developed a vision for what good looks like:

Preparing for adulthood is a positive experience for young people and their families, which takes place throughout their childhood, laying the foundations for a fulfilled and valued life.

There is an increased focus from the age of fourteen on capturing and working towards the young person's aspirations and plans for the future, working in partnership with their family, including:

- Family, friends and relationships
- Health
- A good place to live
- Learning and skills
- Employment and volunteering
- Money
- Transport
- Fun and leisure
- Community connection

The steering group will:

- Contribute advice and ideas to shape the re-design and development of Preparing for Adulthood Services in Wigan
- Work as equal partners to improve services and outcomes
- Identify opportunities for further learning from first experiences of service delivery
- Ensure barriers and blockages associated with service delivery, around the deal are addressed in their entirety rather than 'worked around'

- Feedback on the quality of transition services they have received so that that Adult Social Care and partners can continually improve its services.
- Report on any gaps in community/service provision
- Share experiences of what works, what doesn't
- Offer ideas and influence how services are delivered
- Provide an opportunity to express views, experiences and opinions on services provided.
- Test out new innovative ways of working with transition services.
